SHALLENGE CHALLENGE

1964

FOREWORD

Keeping pace with the times, the 1964 Coahoman Staff selected for its Yearbook Theme: CHAL-LENGE.

A challenge is a demand, a claim upon, a calling into question, an invitation to a contest of strength, wit, cleverness, agility, courage and endurance.

Coahoma Junior College itself is a Challenge, and it presents areas of Challenge to its students, faculty and community.

Dedication

Mr. McCune, our scouts have observed you; our statistician has facts about you; we respect you; and we want all of our readers to know you.

We mention a few of the facts that justify our choice.

Since you were the first college teacher in this area you helped organize the Health and Physical education program at Coahoma Junior College.

You were the first full time Registrar of the college.

You have directed the faculty and students in the Annual Homecoming Drive from its beginning until this year. The money raised has helped finance college athletic activities and purchased needed supplies and equipment.

Last year when the High School needed a Principal you accepted the challenge - and the results have been most favorable.

In these instances and in many others you have carried on with great fortitude and dependability, even against odds.

Your dedication to a job and your record here at Coahoma Junior College and Agricultural High School will challenge us to greater effort.

Please accept our good wishes and let the Dedication of this 1964 Coahoman challenge you to further justify our faith in you.

The theme Challenge gives much latitude for thought. It is a word of broad usage that says many things when it is challenged.

One of the synonyms for challenge is defy. An educator himself is a challenge. By virtue of his title he has openly denounced ignorance, and taken a moral oath to combat illiteracy whenever and wherever he finds it.

The Staff presents the "Defiant Ones;" those who daily challenge the world to witness a duel between learning and illiteracy - Our very efficient Administration and Faculty.

President's Message

We would be more than presumptuous if we tried to tell you about the significant role that the junior college is taking in the educational scene today. You are aware of it. But we believe that this Annual will be of inestimable value to you as you make future plans for your life developments.

Coahoma Junior College confronts stalwart foes as it attempts to keep its program consistent with society's changing needs. It must question accepted truths and values; deal with deep-seated prejudices; stimulate the complacent and unconcerned; and nourish the will in man to search for a better way of life for himself and his fellowman.

Sensitivity to the needs of the student is a dominant concern of the college. In a very real sense the college is obligated to challenge each student and to motivate each person to serve his society. Coahoma Junior College, along with its community, has to determine: (1) which goals and purposes are requisite for educating young people for social usefulness; (2) in which direction programs should be charted to meet the ever-increasing demands of our nation; and (3) how facilities and personnel can best be utilized for maximum service. These are large and difficult questions; they challenge the American educational enterprise as well as responsible citizens and government. It is not that these questions are necessarily new ones; the people are frustrated and frightened and the increased demands of our nation make them more vital - more urgently in need of solution - than at any other time in history.

Education can meet the imperative and persistent challenge only through its agents - teachers. We make every effort to prepare the masses of students for the world of tomorrow. We cannot accept racial excuses for inferior performances. We develop in our institution a systematic academic program designed to raise the academic achievement level of every child up to the maximum of his own potential.

The efforts of Coahoma Junior College have always been directed to foresee in every student clarity, integrity, personal dignity and will and to develop these characteristics. These are necessary in order to make their contribution to a society desperately in need of stable moral guide-posts and, meaningful values and standards. The sound base on which our educational program is built, the commitment which is ours to continue dynamic undertakings, and the outstanding contributions of Coahomans throughout the world - all attest to the worth of our endeavors. We look to the future with confidence in the institution's ability to serve our society with continuing effectiveness in the face of such challenges.

COAHOMA'S PRESIDENT HONORED

Formal appreciation for distinguished services rendered to the cause of educational community development accorded Mr. Benjamin Franklin McLaurin, President of Coahoma Junior College. Educators from several states joined in a program honoring him for twenty-five years plus of service in Coahoma County, Mis sissippi. Dr. Vernon McDaniel of Austin, Texas and Executive Secretary of the Texas State Teachers Association, delivered the main address on the program, and he was introduced by Mrs. Lillian Rogers Johnson, a member of the Board of Trustees of the Others who commended Mr. McLaurin for his fine services were: Mr. B. L. Hill, State Supervisor of Agricultur al High Schools and Junior Colleges; Mr. Paul M. Hunter, County Superintendent of Education; Mr. Walter Washington, President of the Mississippi Teachers Association; Mr. W. A. Higgins, Dean of Students, Jackson, State College, Mr. Howard Young, President Student Government; Miss Mary G. Whiteside, Academic Dean of CJC; and Mr. James McLaughlin Sr., represented the school's PTA.

The band and chorus of Coahoma presented several appropriate selections.

Mr. McLaurin is an undergradof Alcorn A. & M. College a graduate of Tuskegee Institute. He has done further study at New York University.

He began his career in 1953 as a teacher of vocational agriculture at the Coahoma County Agricultral High School. Five years later he worked with the Farm Home Administration and returned to the county as a Farm-garden Preservation Supervisor. Because of his passion for growth and achievement, he spent one year respectively at his Alma and Florida Normal and Industrial College in St. Augustine. Florida.

Four years after he became Superintendent of Coahoma Agricultural High School, the Junior College Department was added and he has served as president of the college for the past fourteen years. Under his passionate leadership the enrollment has risen from 24 to 455 in 1963, and 714 graduates have been awarded the Associate in Arts Degree from the college.

Not only has Mr. McLaurin sucin strengthening and increasing the faculty and staff but he has succeeded in expanding the physical plant and in effecting varied curriculums to meet the needs of a growing and diverse student body. Similar growth has taken place in the high school so that now "Aggie High" accomall Negro youth of modates Coahoma County outside the Clarksdale Separate District.

In their commendations, the speakers pointed out that the McLaurin influence has extended to other phases of community life. It is quite evident in the field o christian leader ship where the honoree serves as a steward of Friendship A. M. E. Church; in civic and charitable movements where he, on several occasions, has spearheaded financial drives in the interest of the Boy Scouts of America and the March of Dimes; and in fraternal circles where he holds membership as an Omega, an Elk and a Mason. Further, it is evident in agricultural economy where he is actively engaged in farming.

The President and his wife, Sezzie Mae McLaurin, have two sons, Benjamin Franklin McLaurin Jr., a graduate of Kansas State University where he is now working toward the masters' degree, and Johnnie William McLaurin, a grad uate of Kansas University, who is now studying toward the masters degree as an Exchange Student in Switzerland.

DOROTHY M. ARMSTRONG, Secretary to the Dean

Congratulations!

To a fine dedicated group of students and teachers who have done a huge job of producing this 1964 Coahoman. You have shown that you can face the challenges that confront you.

Through your efforts many out of school youth will see in the school's program an opportunity to continue their education beyond the high school. Many adults will find in the Coahoma Junior College program opportunities to retrain for future employment by learning new vocational skills.

The program you have depicted, provides help in using leisure time creatively. The wise use of leisure is a challenge which cannot be ignored at the present time.

It is my hope that each of you may continue to be involved in facing challenges that will stimulate a mode of action which will help you to commit yourselves to trying to be what you have learned while engaging in this rich experience.

MARY G. WHITESIDE, Dean-Registrar

VERNON J. ARMSTRONG, Secretary to the Registrar

Principal's Message

It is my pleasure to extend Hearty Congratulations to the Staff of "The Coahoman" for their successful production of another Banner Edition of Our Annual. Without the proper ideals and attitudes on the part of each contributor, this would not have been possible.

As we move toward our life ambitions and objectives let us choose those courses and vocations that will equip us to meet the social and economic forces of world-wide competition. Let us not be numbered among the reservoir of unskilled workers who remain a burden on society. By learning in little packages, day by day as we go along, our efforts will not be in vain.

We look to the future envisioning a broadening horizon of new opportunities for our boys and girls, men and women. We see opportunities to grow in all dimensions; opportunities to develop our abilities to their fullest potential; opportunities to assume our responsibilities; opportunities to prove our worth in all endeavors; opportunities to strengthen the moral fibers of our lives that will give us courage, stamina, determination, and faith in ourselves and our country.

Throughout life we talk about "means and ends;" often questioning whether one justifies the other. This section of the Coahoman is the most vital of all.

It deals with the world of individuals: Persons, Individual

Classes, Areas and Divisions. All of these make up our school and we present them and the challenges they offer.
